II Core Competitiveness Analysis

The Company's unique five major competitive edges of the regions of production, ancient fermentation pit clusters, quality, brands, and consumer base constitute its irreplicable core competitiveness. During the Reporting Period, the Company's core competitiveness remained stable.

The first is the geographical competitiveness. The Yibin region of production, where the Company is situated, boasts a uniquely favorable natural ecological distilling environment of “water, soil, air, climate, and biology”. It has been recognized by United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) and Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) as “the most suitable region in the same latitude for producing high-quality, pure distilled Baijiu”. The region of production has also been selected into the first batch of the key cultivation list of regions of production for traditional advantageous food and local specialty food industries, which is released by the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology.

The second competitive edge lies in the ancient fermentation pit clusters. The ancient fermentation pit clusters of the Yuan and Ming dynasties, represented by Changfasheng and Lichuanyong, are the earliest and largest cave-type ancient fermentation pits that have been continuously and actively used in distilling for the longest time in China's Baijiu industry. “Archaeological Wuliangye”, a continuation project under the “Compass Plan” launched by the National Cultural Heritage Administration, has been successfully completed, tracing the history of the ancient fermentation pit back to 1276 (the early Yuan Dynasty).

Quality represents the third competitive edge. The Company follows the five principles of “planting, distilling, selecting, aging and blending” in the production of its Baijiu, which is the world's first liquor distilled from five grains—sorghum, rice, glutinous rice, wheat and corn. Also, it possesses the unique “1366” traditional production technique that has been identified as a national intangible cultural heritage, with 93 process steps, 310 working procedures, and 218 quality inspection points. A through-life, integrated quality management model “from seed to liquor” has been established. During the Reporting Period, the Company passed the CNAS accreditation scope expansion review, cumulatively obtaining 444 accredited testing capabilities and ranking first among Baijiu enterprises in China. With testing results mutually recognized worldwide, the Company further consolidated the foundation for end-to-end quality control.

The fourth is the brand strength. Wuliangye has a long history and profound cultural heritage. Its origins trace back to the pre-Qin period; it began in the Tang dynasty, emerged in the Song dynasty, was refined in the Yuan dynasty, became well-known in the Ming dynasty, and established its brand name in the Qing dynasty. In 1932, it was the first in the industry to register Chinese and English trademarks. Wuliangye was among the first batch of the China Famous Consumer Goods List issued by the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology, while the Baijiu sector has been designated as a Time-Honored Classic Industry for targeted cultivation and development. During the Reporting Period, the Company continued to deepen its cooperation with CCTV, maintained in-depth participation in high-profile platforms such as the Boao Forum for Asia and the China International Supply Chain Expo, and continued to build signature IPs including the Rose Wedding Ceremony, the Harmony Cultural Festival and the Harmony Global Tour. It went all out for brand promotion around the FIFA World Cup in the United States, Canada and Mexico, with its brand presence and reputation continuing to improve.

The last is a broad consumer base. Strong-flavoured Baijiu is the Baijiu category with the highest market share and the largest consumer base. Being famous for its lasting aroma, mellow, pleasant and smooth taste, and harmonious, well-balanced and comprehensive flavours in particular, Wuliangye has a wide and solid consumer base. Notably, the industry's pioneering low-alcohol Baijiu possesses a unique competitive advantage in cultivating a young consumer demographic and an overseas mainstream demographic.

Note 3: This was primarily driven by the combined effect of the relatively high base in the same period of last year, the decrease in cash received in the Reporting Period following the adjustment of the collection policy in response to market changes, and the year-on-year decrease in the amount of bank acceptance bills maturing.

6. Accounting methods for business combinations involving entities under and not under common control

(1) Accounting methods for business combinations involving entities under common control

For a business combination under the common control achieved through step-by-step implementation of multiple transactions by the Company, the assets and liabilities acquired in a business combination are measured at the carrying amount of the acquiree in the consolidated financial statements of the ultimate controlling party at the date of combination. The difference between the carrying amount of the net assets obtained by the Company and the carrying amount of consideration paid for the combination (or total par value of the shares issued) is adjusted against the capital reserve; if the capital reserve is not sufficient for writing down, the retained earnings shall be adjusted.

(2) Accounting methods for business combinations involving entities not under common control

On the acquisition date, the difference between the combination costs and the fair value share of the identifiable net assets of the acquiree obtained in the merger is recognized as goodwill. If the combination costs are less than the fair value share of the identifiable net assets of the acquiree obtained in the combination, firstly, the fair value of identifiable assets, liabilities and contingent liabilities of the acquiree and the measurement of combination costs are reviewed. If the combination costs are still less than the fair value share of identifiable net assets of the acquiree obtained in the merger after review, the difference is recorded in current profit or loss.

Business combinations not under the same control achieved step by step through multiple transactions should be treated in the following order:

1) Adjusting the initial investment cost of long-term equity investment. If the equity held prior to the date of purchase is accounted under the equity method, the equity is remeasured at the fair value on the purchase date, and the difference between the fair value and its carrying amount is included in the investment income of the current period; if the equity in the acquiree held prior to the purchase date involves other comprehensive income or changes in other owners' equity under the equity method of accounting, it is converted into income for the current period on the purchase date, except for other comprehensive income arising from the re-measurement of the invested company's net liabilities of the defined benefit pension plan or changes in net assets of the defined benefit plan and changes in the fair value of investments in other equity instruments held.

2) Determining the goodwill (or the amount included in the current profit or loss) When comparing the initial investment cost of long-term equity investments adjusted in the first step with the share of the fair value of the identifiable net assets of the subsidiary on the purchase date, if the former is more than the latter, the difference between the former and the latter is recognized as goodwill; if the former is less than the latter, the difference is included in the current profit or loss.

Step-by-step disposal of equity through multiple transactions that results in loss of control over the subsidiary:

1) Principles for determining whether transactions in the process of step-by-step disposal of equity that results in the loss of control over a subsidiary constitute a "package deal"

The multiple transactions are generally regarded as a "package deal" in accounting treatment if the clauses, conditions, and economic impacts of various transactions fall under one or more of the following circumstances:

- ① These transactions were entered into simultaneously or considering their mutual influence;
- ② The transactions as a whole can achieve a complete commercial outcome;
- ③ The occurrence of one transaction is contingent upon the occurrence of at least one other transaction;
- ④ One transaction is uneconomical on its own, but it is economical when taken together with other transactions.

2) Accounting methods when transactions in the process of step-by-step disposal of equity that results in the loss of control over a subsidiary constitute a "package deal"

If the transactions in the disposal of equity of a subsidiary that results in the loss of control constitute a package deal, each transaction should be accounted for as a transaction that disposes of and loses control over a subsidiary; however, the difference between the disposal price and the share of the net assets of the subsidiary corresponding to the disposal of the investment for each disposal prior to the loss of control should be recognized as other comprehensive earnings in the consolidated financial statements and transferred to profit or loss for the current period when the Company lost the control.

In the consolidated financial statements, the remaining equity should be remeasured at fair value on the date of loss of control. The sum of the consideration obtained from the disposition of equity and the fair value of the residual equity minus the Company's portion of net assets in the former subsidiary calculated from the date of combination on an ongoing basis at the original shareholding ratio is included in the return on investment for the current period when the Company lost the control. Other comprehensive income related to the equity investments in the former subsidiary should be included in the return on investment or retained earnings for the current period when the Company lost the control.

3) Accounting methods when transactions in the process of step-by-step disposal of equity that results in the loss of control over a subsidiary do not constitute a “package deal”

If the Company disposes of investments made in its subsidiary without losing control over the subsidiary, in the consolidated financial statements, the difference between the payment for equity disposed of and the Company’s corresponding portion of net assets in the subsidiary is included in the capital reserve. If the capital reserve is insufficient for writing down, the retained earnings should be adjusted.

If the disposal of investments made in its subsidiary results in a loss of control over the subsidiary, in the consolidated financial statements, the remaining equity should be remeasured at the fair value on the date of loss of control. The sum of the consideration obtained from the disposal of equity and the fair value of the remaining equity minus the Company’s portion of net assets in the former subsidiary calculated from the date of combination on an ongoing basis at the original shareholding ratio is included in the return on investment for the current period when the Company lost the control. Other comprehensive income related to the equity investments in the former subsidiary should be included in the return on investment or retained earnings for the current period when the Company lost the control.

7. Judgement criteria for control and methods for preparing consolidated financial statements

The scope of consolidation of the Company’s consolidated financial statements shall be determined on the basis of control.

Control means that the Company has the power over the invested company, gets variable return by participating in related activities of the invested company and has the ability to influence the amount of the return by its power over the invested company. Related activities refer to activities that have a significant impact on the returns of the invested company. The related activities of the invested company should be judged based on the specific circumstances, and usually include the sale and purchase of goods or services, the management of financial assets, the purchase and disposal of assets, research and development activities, and financing activities.

The Company will judge whether these entities have been controlled by the investee based on its comprehensive consideration of relevant facts and circumstances. Should any changes in such facts and circumstances alter the elements defining control, a reassessment is promptly conducted. Relevant facts and circumstances mainly include: (1) the purpose of the investee’s establishment; (2) the investee’s activities and how decisions regarding them are made; (3) whether the rights held by the investor currently enable it to dominate the investee’s activities; (4) whether the investor receives variable returns from participating in the investee’s activities; (5) whether the investor has the ability to use its power over the investee to affect the amount of its returns; (6) the relationship between the investor and other parties.

The consolidated financial statements are based on the financial statements of the parent company and its subsidiaries and are prepared by the Company in accordance with Accounting Standard No. 33 for Business Enterprises - Consolidated Financial Statements based on other relevant information.

The parent company shall prepare the consolidated financial statements based on its financial statements and those of its subsidiaries and according to other relevant information. The share of the subsidiaries in current profit/loss attributable to non-controlling interests shall be presented in the consolidated income statement as “net profit attributable to non-controlling interests” under the net profit. The share in current comprehensive income of the subsidiaries which is attributable to non-controlling interests shall be presented in the consolidated income statement as “total comprehensive income attributable to non-controlling interests” under the total other comprehensive income.

For subsidiaries and businesses of the parent company added by business combination involving enterprises under the common control during the Reporting Period, the revenue, expenses, and profits of such subsidiaries and businesses from the beginning to the end of the period of business combination shall be recorded into the consolidated income statement. Cash flows of such subsidiaries and businesses from the beginning to the end of the year of business combination shall be recorded into the consolidated cash flow statement, and relevant items of the statements shall be adjusted through comparison of the statements, as if the reporting entity after the combination had been existing from control of the final controlling party after the combination comes into effect.

For subsidiaries and businesses added by business combination involving enterprises not under the common control or other means, the revenue, expenses, and profits of such subsidiaries and businesses from the date of acquisition to the end of Reporting Period shall be recorded into the consolidated income statement. Cash flows of such subsidiary from the date of acquisition to the end of the Reporting Period shall be recorded into the consolidated cash flow statement.

When the parent company disposes subsidiaries and businesses during the Reporting Period, the revenue, expenses, and profits of such subsidiary and business from the beginning of the Reporting Period to the date of disposal shall be recorded into the consolidated income statement; and the cash flow of such subsidiary and business from the beginning of the Reporting Period to the date of disposal shall be recorded into the consolidated cash flow statement.

In the consolidated financial statements, when the parent company acquires the equity held by the minority shareholders in the subsidiary, the difference between the long-term equity investment obtained by acquiring non-controlling interests and the share of the net assets to be enjoyed and continuously calculated from the date of acquisition or combination according to the new increase in shareholding proportion shall be adjusted against the capital reserve (capital premium or share premium). If the capital reserve is not sufficient for writing down, the retained earnings shall be adjusted.

8. Classification of joint arrangements and accounting methods for joint operations

(1) Identification and classification of joint arrangements

Joint arrangement refers to an arrangement under the joint control of two or more participants. A joint arrangement has the following characteristics: 1) Each participant is bound by the arrangement; 2) two or more parties of the joint arrangement exercise joint control over the arrangement. No one party can control the arrangement alone, and any party with joint control over the arrangement can prevent the other party or combination of parties from controlling the arrangement alone.

Joint control refers to the common control of an arrangement in accordance with the relevant agreement, and related activities of the arrangement must be agreed upon by the parties sharing control rights before they can make decisions.

Joint arrangements are divided into joint operations and joint ventures. A joint operation is a joint arrangement whereby the party to joint arrangement has rights to the assets, and obligations for the liabilities related to the arrangement. A joint venture is a joint arrangement whereby the party to joint arrangement has rights to the net assets of the arrangement.

(2) Accounting treatment of joint arrangements

A party to a joint operation shall recognize the following items related to its share of interest in the joint operation and conduct accounting treatment for them in accordance with the relevant provisions of the Accounting Standard for Business Enterprises: 1) Recognition of assets held separately and of assets held jointly in proportion to its share; 2) recognition of liabilities incurred separately and of liabilities incurred jointly in proportion to its share; 3) recognition of revenue from the sale of its share of the output of the joint operation; 4) recognition of revenue from the sale of output of the joint operation in proportion to its share; 5) recognition of expenses incurred separately and of expenses incurred in the joint operation in proportion to its share.

The party to a joint venture should conduct accounting treatment in accordance with relevant provisions of the Enterprise Accounting Standard No. 2 - Long-term Equity Investments.

9. Recognition criteria of cash and cash equivalents

Cash in the cash flow statements refers to cash on hand and deposits that can be used for payment at any time; cash equivalents refer to the short-term (usually no more than three months since the date of acquisition) and highly liquid investments that are readily convertible into known amounts of cash and that are subject to an insignificant risk of change in value.

10. Foreign currency transaction and foreign currency statement translation

(1) Conversion of foreign currency business

Transactions denominated in foreign currency are converted into RMB at the spot exchange rate at the transaction date at initial recognition. At the balance sheet date, the foreign monetary items are converted at the spot exchange rate at the balance sheet date, and the exchange difference arising from exchange rate difference, except for the exchange difference arising from principal and interest of foreign currency special borrowings relating to purchasing assets satisfying capitalization conditions, is included in current profit or loss; the foreign non-monetary items measured at historical cost are still converted at the spot exchange rate at the transaction date, and its RMB amount will not be changed; the foreign non-monetary items measured at fair value are converted at the spot exchange rate at the fair value determination date, and the difference is included in current profit or loss or other comprehensive income.

(2) Conversion of foreign currency financial statements

The assets and liabilities in the balance sheet are converted at the spot exchange rate at the balance sheet date; the owners' equity items, other than retained earnings, are converted at the spot exchange rate at the transaction date; the incomes and expenses in the income statement are converted at the spot exchange rate at the transaction date. The foreign currency financial statement conversion difference arising from the aforementioned translation is recognized as other comprehensive income.

11. Financial instruments

(1) Recognition and de-recognition of financial instruments

The Company recognizes a financial asset or liability when it becomes a party of the relevant financial instrument contract.

The purchase and sale of financial assets under the normal ways shall be recognized and stopped to be recognized respectively at the price of transaction date. Regular acquisitions or sales of financial assets mean delivering financial assets within the time limit of laws, regulations, or usual market practices and in line with contract terms. The transaction date refers to the date when the Company promises to acquire or sell financial assets.

A financial asset (or a part of the financial assets, or part of a group of similar financial assets) will be derecognized, that is, a previously recognized financial asset is transferred from the balance sheet, when meeting the following conditions:

1) The rights to receive cash flows from financial assets have expired;

2) The rights to receive cash flows from the financial assets are transferred, or the obligations to pay the full amount of cash flows received to a third party in a timely manner are assumed under a "pass-through agreement"; and (a) substantially almost all the risks and returns of its ownership of the financial assets are transferred, or (b)

control over the financial asset is relinquished, although substantially all the risks and returns of its ownership of the financial assets are neither transferred nor retained.

If the obligation of financial liabilities has been assumed, revoked, or terminated, financial liabilities shall be derecognized. If the current financial liabilities are replaced with other financial liabilities under substantially different terms by the same creditor, or almost all current liabilities terms are substantially revised, such replacement or revision shall be taken as the derecognition of original liabilities and recognition of new liabilities, and the differences are included in the current profit or loss.

(2) Classification and measurement of financial assets

At initial recognition, according to the business model of managing financial assets and the contractual cash flow characteristics of financial assets, financial assets of the Company are classified into the following categories: Financial assets measured at the amortized cost, financial assets measured at fair value through other comprehensive income of the current period, and financial assets measured at fair value through current profit or loss. The subsequent measurement of financial assets depended on their categories.

1) Financial assets measured at amortized cost

Financial assets that meet both of the following conditions shall be classified as financial assets measured at the amortized cost: The Company's business model of managing financial assets aims at obtaining contractual cash flows; and, as stipulated by term contract of the financial assets, the cash flows generated on a specific date are merely for the payment of principal or the interest from the unpaid principal. Such financial assets are subsequently measured at the amortized cost using the effective interest method. Gains or losses arising from derecognition or amortization using the effective interest method are included in current profit or loss.

2) Investments in debt instruments measured at fair value through other comprehensive income

Financial assets that meet all the following conditions shall be classified as financial assets measured at fair value through other comprehensive income: The Company's business model of managing the financial assets aims at obtaining contractual cash flows as well as selling financial assets; and, as stipulated by contract clauses of the financial assets, the cash flows generated on a specific date are merely for the payment of principal or interest from the unpaid principal. Such financial assets shall be subsequently measured at fair value. The discount or premium is amortized using the effective interest method and recognized as interest income or expense. Changes in the fair value of such financial assets are recognized as other comprehensive income until the financial asset is derecognized, at which time the cumulative gain or loss is transferred to current profit or loss, except for impairment losses and exchange differences on monetary financial assets denominated in foreign currencies, which are recognized in current profit or loss. Interest income related to such financial assets is included in profit or loss for the current period.

3) Investments in equity instruments measured at fair value through other comprehensive income

For financial assets measured at fair value through other comprehensive income that are irrevocably chosen and designated by the Company from some non-trading equity investments, the relevant dividend income is included in the current profit or loss, and changes in the fair value are recognized as other comprehensive income, until the financial assets are derecognized when accumulative gains or losses shall be transferred to retained earnings.

4) Financial assets measured at fair value through profit or loss of the current period

The aforementioned financial assets measured at the amortized cost and financial assets other than those measured at fair value through other comprehensive income are classified as financial assets at fair value through profit or loss. At initial recognition, in order to eliminate or significantly reduce accounting mismatch, financial assets can be designated as financial assets measured at fair value through the profit or loss for the current period. Such financial assets shall be measured at fair value, and all changes in fair value are included in the current profit or loss.

Only when the Company changes the business model of managing financial assets, shall relevant financial assets that are affected be reclassified.

For financial assets at fair value through profit or loss, transaction costs are directly included in the current profit or loss. For other types of financial assets, related transaction costs are included in their initial recognized amounts.

(3) Classification and measurement of financial liabilities

At initial recognition, the financial liabilities of the Company are classified into the following categories: Financial liabilities measured at the amortized cost, and financial liabilities measured at fair value through the current profit or loss.

Any financial liability meeting any of the following conditions can be designated upon initial measurement as the financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss: 1) This designation can eliminate or significantly reduce accounting mismatch; 2) According to the risk management or investment strategy of the Company as stated in formal written document, the portfolio of financial liabilities or the portfolio of financial assets and financial liabilities is managed and evaluated on the basis of fair value, and reported to the key management on the basis of this inside the Company; 3) This financial liability contains embedded derivative to be separately split.

For financial liabilities measured at fair value through the current profit or loss, transaction costs are directly included in current profit or loss. For other types of financial liabilities, related transaction costs are included in their initial recognized amounts.

The subsequent measurement of financial liabilities depends on their categories:

1) Financial liabilities measured at amortized cost

Such financial liabilities are subsequently measured at the amortized cost with the effective interest method.

2) Financial liabilities measured at fair value through the current profit or loss

Financial liabilities measured at fair value through profit or loss for the current period include held-for-trading financial liabilities (including derivatives that are financial liabilities) and financial liabilities designated as at fair value through profit or loss at initial recognition.

(4) Financial instrument offset

When the following conditions are met at the same time, the financial assets and financial liabilities shall be presented as net amount after offset in the balance sheet: The Company has the legal rights to offset the recognized amount and may exercise such legal rights currently; the Company plans to settle with net amount or realize the financial asset and pay off the financial liability simultaneously.

(5) Impairment of financial assets

The Company shall recognize impairment for loss of the financial assets measured at the amortized cost, investment in debt instruments through other comprehensive income and financial guarantee contracts based on the expected credit loss. Credit loss refers to the difference between all contractual cash flows discounted at the original effective interest rate and receivable according to the contract and all cash flows expected to be collected of the Company, i.e. the present value of all cash shortfalls.

The Company considers all reasonable and substantiated information, including forward-looking information, and estimated the expected credit losses of the financial assets measured at the amortized cost, and the financial assets (debt instruments) measured at fair value through other comprehensive income by individual items or portfolios.

1) General model of expected credit loss

If the credit risk of the financial instrument is increased significantly since the initial recognition, the Company measures its loss reserves according to the amount equivalent to the expected credit losses of the financial instrument in the whole duration; if the credit risk of the financial instrument is not increased significantly since the initial recognition, the Company measures its loss reserves according to the amount equivalent to the expected credit losses of the financial instrument in the next 12 months. The consequent increases or reversals of loss reserves are included in the profit or loss for the current period as an impairment loss or gain. For the specific assessment of credit risk by the Company, please refer to notes to the financial statements “Part VIII, XII Risks Related to Financial Instruments”.

On the balance sheet date, the Company measured the expected credit loss of financial instruments at different stages, respectively. If the credit risk of a financial instrument has not increased significantly since the initial recognition, the financial instrument is in Stage 1, and the Company measures the provisions for loss according to the 12-month expected credit loss; if the credit risk of a financial instrument has increased significantly but the credit impairment has not yet occurred since the initial recognition, the financial instrument is in Stage 2, and the Company measures the provisions for loss according to the lifetime expected credit losses; if the financial instrument has suffered credit impairment since the initial recognition, it is in Stage 3, and the Company measures the provisions for loss according to the lifetime expected credit loss.

For a financial instrument with low credit risk on the balance sheet date, the Company assumes that the credit risk has not increased significantly since the initial recognition, and the Company measures the provisions for loss according to the 12-month expected credit loss.

For financial instruments with low credit risk in Stage 1 and Stage 2, the Company shall calculate the interest income according to the carrying amount and effective interest rate before deducting the provisions for impairment. For financial instruments in Stage 3, the Company shall calculate the interest income according to the amortized cost and effective interest rate of the carrying amount after withdrawing the provisions for impairment.

2) Accounts receivable and lease receivables

The Company applies a simplified model of expected credit loss to accounts receivable as prescribed by Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises No.14 – Revenues, excluding significant financing components (including cases where financing components within contracts not exceeding one year are disregarded under the standard), and always measures its losses based on the amount of expected credit losses over the entire life of the accounts receivable.

For accounts receivable containing a significant financing component and lease receivables regulated by Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises No. 21 —Leases, the Company makes an accounting policy choice to adopt the simplified model of expected credit loss, i.e., measuring the loss provision equivalent to the expected credit loss over the entire life of the accounts receivable.

① Accounts receivable

(a) At the end of the Reporting Period, if there is objective evidence indicating that impairment has occurred in an account receivable, impairment test shall be carried out separately on it, such as accounts receivable in dispute with counterparties or involved in litigation or arbitration; if there is obvious indication that the debtor is likely to fail to comply with the repayment obligation, the impairment loss shall be recognized and the bad debt provisions shall be made based on the balance between the present value of future cash flows and its carrying value.

(b) If there is no objective evidence indicating that impairment or the credit loss of a single financial asset cannot be evaluated at reasonable cost, the accounts receivable shall be classified into several groups by characteristics of credit risk. The expected credit loss shall be calculated based on the combinations and the account ages. Basis for determining the combinations is as below:

Item	Determination basis
Bank acceptance bill group	Bank acceptance bills

Letter of credit group	Letters of credit
Commercial acceptance bills group	Commercial acceptance bills
Accounts receivable group	Accounts receivable from related parties
Accounts receivable group	External customer
Other receivables group	Other receivables from related parties
Other receivables group	Cash float, deposits and other receivables with low credit risk
Other receivables group	Other amounts

For accounts receivable divided into groups, the Company, with reference to historical experience in credit loss and based on current situation and forecast of future economic situation, shall prepare a comparison table between the aging of accounts receivable and the lifetime expected credit loss rate to calculate the expected credit losses. For other groups, the Company, with reference to historical experience in credit loss and based on current situation and forecast of future economic situation, shall calculate the expected credit losses according to the exposure at default and the 12-month or lifetime expected credit loss rate.

② Debt investments and other debt investments

For debt investment and other debt investments, the Company shall calculate the expected credit loss according to the nature of investment, types of counterparties and risk exposure, exposure at default and the 12-month or lifetime expected credit loss rate.

The Company shall include the provision or reversal for loss made or included in current profit or loss. For investment in debts instruments at fair value through other comprehensive income, the Company shall adjust other comprehensive income when the impairment loss or gain is included in current profit or loss; for financial assets measured at amortized cost, the provision for loss shall offset the carrying value of such financial assets.

12. Inventory

(1) Classification of inventory

Inventories include finished goods or goods held for sale in the ordinary course of business, work in process in the production process, materials or supplies to be consumed in the production process, or the rendering of services.

(2) Valuation method of shipped inventory

Grains, raw coal and auxiliary materials for producing Baijiu are measured at actual cost, and shipped inventories are priced by weighted average method; paper, printing ink, and auxiliary materials for producing printed matters are measured at planned cost when purchased and shipped, with the difference between actual cost and planned cost included in “materials cost difference”. The difference to be amortized by the materials shipped shall be calculated by materials cost difference by category at the end of the month, so as to adjust cost of the materials shipped into actual cost; goods in process, self-manufactured semi-finished products, and finished products are measured at actual cost and priced by weighted average method when shipped.

(3) Inventory system of inventories

The perpetual inventory system is adopted.

(4) Amortization method for low-value consumables and packaging materials

The one-off amortization method is adopted.

(5) Determination basis and methods for provision of inventory falling price reserves

On the balance sheet date, the inventories shall be measured at the lower of cost and net realizable value. If cost of the inventories is higher than the net realizable value, a provision for inventory falling price reserves shall be made and included in current profit or loss.

Net realizable value refers to the amount after deducting the cost estimated until completion, estimated selling expenses, and relevant taxes from the estimated selling price of the inventory.

The Company shall determine the net realizable value of inventories based on solid evidence obtained and after taking into consideration the purpose for which the inventory is held, and the impact of post-balance sheet events. Materials held for use in the production of inventories are measured at cost if the net realizable value of the finished products in which they will be incorporated is higher than their cost; decline in the price of materials indicates that the cost of the finished products exceeds their net realizable value, the materials are measured at net realizable value. The net realizable value of inventory held to satisfy sales or service contracts is based on the contract price. If the quantities held by the Company is higher than the quantities of inventories specified in sales contracts, the net realizable value of the excess portion of inventories shall be based on general selling price.

Any of the following circumstances usually indicates that net realizable value of an inventory is lower than the cost:

- 1) Market price of the inventory declines continuously and there is no hope of rising in the foreseeable future;
- 2) The cost of products produced by the Company with such raw materials is higher than the selling price of the product;
- 3) The raw material inventory no longer satisfies the needs of new products due to upgrade of products, and the market price of the raw material is lower than the book cost;
- 4) The market price declines gradually due to obsolete goods or service provided by the Company, or change of market demands due to change of consumer preference; and
- 5) Other circumstances which are sufficient to prove substantial impairment of the inventory.

The Company shall usually determine the falling price reserves of inventories on an item-by-item basis. For inventories in large amount and low unit price, provision for inventory falling price reserves may be made by category of the inventories. For item of inventories relating to a product line that is produced and marketed in the same geographical area, have the same or similar end uses or purposes, and cannot be practically measured separately from other items, provision for inventory falling price reserves may be made on an aggregate basis.

The Company shall determine the net realizable value of inventories on the balance sheet date. When factors causing written-down of the inventory value disappear, the amount written down shall be recovered and will be reversed from the provided inventory falling price reserves. The amount reversed will be included in current profit or loss.

13. Assets held for sale

(1) Recognition criteria and accounting methods for non-current assets or disposal groups held for sale

The Company classifies group components (or non-current assets) that meet the following conditions simultaneously as assets held for sale: 1) Assets or disposal groups can be sold immediately under current conditions based on the practice of selling such assets or disposal groups in similar transactions; 2) The sale is very likely to occur, that is, the Company has already made a resolution on a sale plan and obtained a certain acquisition commitment, and the sale is expected to be completed within one year. (A certain acquisition commitment refers to a legally binding acquisition agreement signed by an enterprise and other parties, which includes important terms such as transaction price, time and sufficiently severe default penalties, so as to make it extremely unlikely that the agreement will be significantly adjusted or revoked.) It has been approved by relevant authorities or regulatory authorities in accordance with relevant regulations.

The Company adjusts the expected net residual value of assets held for sale to reflect the net amount of fair value minus selling costs (but not exceeding the original carrying amount of the asset held for sale). The difference between the original book value and the adjusted expected net residual value is recognized as an impairment loss and included in the current profit or loss, with a corresponding impairment provision for the asset held for sale. The amount of asset impairment loss recognized for disposal groups held for sale shall be offset against the carrying amount of goodwill in the disposal group first, and then against the carrying value of each non-current asset proportionately according to the proportion of the carrying value of each non-current asset in the disposal group as defined in the applicable measurement of the Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises No. 42—Non-current Assets Held for Sale, Disposal Groups, and Discontinued Operations.

If, after follow-up balance sheet dates, the fair value less costs to sell of non-current assets held for sale increases, the previously recognized impairment loss shall be reversed. The amount of the reversal is transferred from the impairment loss recognized for assets classified as held for sale, and the reversal amount is recognized in current profit or loss, follow-up balance sheet date Impairment losses recognized before an asset is classified as held for sale shall not be reversed. If the net amount of fair value minus selling costs for assets held for sale or disposal groups increases after the follow-up balance sheet date, previously recognized impairment losses should be reversed, and the reversal should be applied in accordance with the measurement regulations for non-current assets classified as held for sale, as stated in Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises No. 42—Non-current Assets Held for Sale, Disposal Groups, and Discontinued Operations, and the reversal amount is recognized in the current profit or loss. The carrying amount of goodwill that has been impaired, and the impairment losses of non-current assets recognized before being classified as held for sale, as per Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises No. 42—Non-current Assets Held for Sale, Disposal Groups, and Discontinued Operations., cannot be reversed. The reversal of asset impairment losses recognized for assets held for sale in a disposal group should be proportionally increased based on the carrying value of each non-current asset in the disposal group, excluding goodwill, in accordance with their respective carrying amounts under the measurement regulations of Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises No. 42—Non-current Assets Held for Sale, Disposal Groups, and Discontinued Operations. If an enterprise loses control over a subsidiary due to the sale of its investment in a subsidiary or other reasons, regardless of whether the enterprise retains part of the equity investment after the sale, when the investment in the subsidiary to be sold satisfies the classification conditions of the held-for-sale the parent company category, the investment in the subsidiary shall be classified as held for sale as a whole in individual financial statements of the parent Company, and all assets and liabilities of the subsidiary shall be classified as held for sale in the consolidated financial statements.

(2) Recognition criteria and presentation of discontinued operations

Discontinued operation refers to a component of an enterprise that meets one of the following conditions, can be distinguished separately, and has either been disposed of or classified as held for sale: 1) The component represents a major separate business or a major geographical area of operation; 2) The component is part of a plan to dispose of a major separate business or a major geographical area of operation; 3) The component is a subsidiary acquired specifically for resale.

The definition of discontinued operations includes the following three aspects:

1) Discontinued operations must be a distinct component of the enterprise. The operations and cash flows of this component should be clearly distinguishable from other parts of the enterprise when preparing financial statements and conducting business operations.

2) Discontinued operations must have a certain scale. Discontinued operations should represent an independent major business or a separate major operating region, or part of a related plan to dispose of such a business or operating region.

3) Discontinued operations must meet certain timing requirements. A component meeting the definition of discontinued operations should belong to one of the following two conditions: it has already been disposed of before the balance sheet date, including being sold or ended (e.g., shut down or scrapped); or it has been classified as held for sale before the balance sheet date.

14. Long-term equity investments

(1) Determination of initial investment cost

1) For business combinations under common control, if the combining party considers that it makes payment in cash, transfers non-cash assets, assumes its liabilities, or issues equity securities on the date of combination, it regards the share of the carrying amount of the owners' equity of the combined party included in the consolidated financial statements of the ultimate controlling party as the initial cost of the investment. The share premium of the capital reserve shall be adjusted with the difference between the initial investment cost of the long-term equity investment and the carrying amount of the consideration paid or the par value of shares issued. If the share premium of the capital reserve is insufficient for writing down, the retained earnings shall be adjusted.

In cases of step-by-step implementation of business combinations under common control, the initial investment cost of the investment shall be the share of the acquired entity's owners' equity attributable to the acquiring entity on the acquisition date, calculated based on the ownership percentage. The difference between the initial investment cost and the sum of the carrying amount of the original long-term equity investments and the carrying value of any additional consideration paid for further shares acquired on the acquisition date is adjusted to share premium (capital surplus or share premium). If the share premium is insufficient for writing down, the retained earnings shall be used for writing down.

2) For business combinations not under the same control, the fair value of the combination consideration paid by it on the acquisition date shall be its initial investment cost.

3) Except for business combinations: If it is acquired by paying cash, the actual acquisition price shall be taken as its initial investment cost; if it is acquired by issuing equity securities, the fair value of the issued equity securities shall be taken as its initial investment cost; if it is acquired by the investment of the investors, the value agreed in the investment contract or agreement shall be taken as its initial investment cost (except when the agreed value is considered unfair).

(2) Subsequent measurement and profit & loss recognition methods

For long-term equity investments in invested companies over which the Company has control, the cost method is used in the Company's individual financial statements; for long-term equity investments with joint control or significant influence, the equity method is applied.

Under the cost method, long-term equity investments are valued at the initial investment cost. Except for the price actually paid at the acquisition of investment or the declared but undistributed cash dividends or profits included in the consideration, the Company recognized the return on investment of the current period in accordance with the cash dividends or profits declared and distributed by the invested company, with consideration given to the impairment of long-term investments based on applicable impairment policies.

For long-term equity investment accounted for using the equity method, if the initial cost of long-term equity investment is greater than the fair value of identifiable net assets of the invested company gained from the investment, the excess shall be included in the initial investment cost of the long-term equity investment. If the initial investment cost is smaller than the fair value of identifiable net assets of the invested company gained from the investment, the difference shall be included in the current profit or loss, and the cost of long-term equity investments shall be adjusted.

Under the equity method, after acquiring long-term equity investments, the investment gains or losses are realized based on the share of net profit or loss that the invested company shall be entitled to or share. The long-term equity investment's carrying amount is adjusted accordingly. When the share of the net profits and losses of the invested company is recognized, the fair value of the invested company's identifiable assets at the time of obtaining the investment shall be used as the basis. This is done in accordance with the Company's accounting policies and accounting period, and internal transaction gains and losses with joint ventures and associates are offset based on the ownership proportion attributable to the investing company (except when internal transaction losses are related to asset impairment losses, in which case they shall be fully recognized). Subsequent to adjusting the net profits of the invested institution after recognition. The investor reduces the carrying amount of long-term equity investments correspondingly when calculating the portion to be received based on the cash dividends or profits declared to be distributed by the invested company. The Company shall recognize the net losses of the invested company until the carrying amount of the long-term equity investment and other long-term rights and interests which substantially form the net investment made to the invested company are reduced to zero, unless the Company has the obligation to undertake extra losses. As for other changes in owners' equity except for the net profit and loss of the invested company, the Company shall adjust the carrying amount of the long-term equity investment and include it in the owners' equity.

(3) Determination basis of control and significant influence on the invested company

Control means that the investor has power over the invested company, enjoys variable returns by participating in the relevant activities of the invested company, and has the ability to use the power over the invested company to affect the amount of returns. Significant influence means that the investor has the rights to participate in the decision-making of the financial and operating policies of the invested company, but cannot control or jointly control the formulation of these policies with other parties.

(4) Disposal of long-term equity investments

1) Partial disposal of long-term equity investments in a subsidiary without losing control

In the case of a partial disposal of long-term equity investments in a subsidiary without losing control, the variance between the disposal proceeds and the corresponding carrying amount of the disposed investment is recognized as current investment income.

2) Partial disposal of equity investments or other reasons for losing control of a subsidiary

In cases where control over a subsidiary is lost due to the disposal of equity investments or other reasons, the carrying amount of long-term equity investments corresponding to the disposed equity shall be transferred. The difference between the proceeds from the sale and the carrying value of the disposed long-term equity investment shall be recognized as investment income (loss). At the same time, the remaining equity shall be recognized at its carrying value as long-term equity investments or other related financial assets. If the remaining equity after the disposal can exercise joint control or significant influence over the subsidiary, accounting treatment shall be conducted in accordance with relevant regulations on the conversion from the cost method to the equity method.

(5) Impairment test method and impairment provision method

Investments in subsidiaries, associates, and joint ventures should be assessed for impairment at the balance sheet date if there is objective evidence indicating impairment. The corresponding impairment provision should be recognized based on the difference between the carrying amount and the recoverable amount.

15. Fixed assets

(1) Recognition conditions

Fixed assets refer to tangible assets which are held for producing goods, providing services, renting or operation and management and with service life of more than one accounting year and high unit value.

Costs of outsourced fixed assets include purchase price, import duty and other relevant taxes, and other expenditures incurred before and for making the fixed assets reach its intended condition for use directly attributable to such assets.

Book value of self-constructed fixed assets shall be the necessary expenditures incurred before and for making the fixed assets reach its intended condition for use. Book value of fixed assets invested by investors shall be the value recognized by the investors.

Subsequent expenditures related to fixed assets shall be included in the cost of fixed assets if meeting the recognition conditions for fixed assets, and shall be included in current profit or loss if not meeting the recognition conditions for fixed assets.

Fixed assets are recorded at actual cost at the time of acquisition and depreciated using the straight-line method from the second month after they reach their intended serviceable condition.

(2) Depreciation method

Category	Depreciation Method	Depreciation Life	Residual Rate	Yearly Depreciation Rate
Tenements and Buildings	Straight-line method	25-30 years	3%-5%	3.17-3.88%
Machinery and equipment	Straight-line method	8-12 years	3%-5%	7.92-12.13%
Transport equipment	Straight-line method	six years	3%-5%	15.83-16.17%
Other equipment	Straight-line method	six years	3%-5%	15.83-16.17%

(3) Impairment testing method and impairment provision method for fixed assets

If there are signs that fixed assets have been impaired on the balance sheet date, a corresponding impairment provision shall be made based on the difference between the book value and the recoverable amount.

16. Construction in progress

(1) From the date when the construction in progress is ready for its intended use, based on factors such as the project budget, cost, or actual cost, it is transferred to fixed assets based on the estimated value and depreciated according to the Company's fixed asset depreciation policy. Adjustment shall be made to the originally and provisionally estimated value based on the actual cost after the completion settlement is handled, but depreciation already provided shall not be adjusted.

(2) If there are signs that construction in progress has been impaired on the balance sheet date, a corresponding impairment provision shall be made based on the difference between the book value and the recoverable amount.

17. Borrowing costs

(1) Recognition principles of capitalization of borrowing costs

The borrowing costs that have occurred and can be directly attributed to the acquisition, construction or production of assets eligible for capitalization are capitalized by the Company and recorded in relevant cost of assets; other borrowing costs are recognized as expenses based on the amount incurred when they occur, and shall be recorded in current profit or loss.

(2) Capitalization period of borrowing costs

1) Capitalization begins when the borrowing costs meet the following conditions at the same time: 1) Asset expenditure has already occurred; 2) Borrowing costs have already occurred; 3) Acquisition and construction activities necessary to bring the assets to the intended condition for use or sale have already begun.

2) If the acquisition, construction or production of assets eligible for capitalization is continuously suspended for over three months for abnormal reasons, capitalization of the borrowing costs shall be suspended; borrowing costs incurred during the suspension shall be recognized as the current costs until the acquisition, construction or production of assets is resumed.

3) When the assets with the acquisition, construction or production meeting the capitalization conditions reach the expected available or marketable status, the capitalization of the borrowing costs shall be suspended.

(3) Capitalized amount of borrowing costs

For borrowings exclusively for the acquisition and construction or production of assets eligible for capitalization, the to-be-capitalized amount of interest is determined in light of the actual interest expenses incurred (including amortization of premium or discount based on effective interest method) of the special borrowings in the current period less the interest income on the unused borrowings as a deposit in the bank or as a temporary investment; where a general borrowing is used for the acquisition and construction or production of assets eligible for capitalization, the Company calculates and determines the to-be-capitalized amount of interests on the general borrowing by multiplying the weighted average asset expenditure of the part of the accumulative asset disbursements less the general borrowing by the capitalization rate of the general borrowing used.

18. Intangible assets

(1) Service life and the basis for its determination, estimation, amortisation methods or review procedures

Externally acquired intangible assets shall be measured at the actual cost when acquired and averagely amortized during the expected service life since the month when the intangible assets is acquired; book value of the self-developed intangible assets shall be the sum of the expenditures during the research and development stage of internal research and development projects of the Company which are eligible for capitalization and the expenditures incurred before reaching the intended condition for use, and be averagely amortized over the expected service life since the month in which the intangible asset is ready for use.

Service life of intangible assets shall be analysed and determined when acquired. Intangible assets with limited service life shall be amortized over period during which they may bring economic interests; if the period during which the intangible assets may bring economic benefit to the enterprise is unforeseeable, such intangible assets shall be considered as intangible assets with uncertain service life and shall not be amortized.

Impairment test: At the end of each year, the Company shall recheck the service life and amortization method of the intangible assets. Intangible assets with uncertain service life shall be subject to impairment test every year whether there is any indication of impairment.

(2) Scope of research and development expenditures and related accounting treatment

The scope of research and development expenditures includes staff salaries for research and development personnel, direct input costs, depreciation and amortisation expenses, and other expenses. The expenditures of the Company's internal research and development projects are divided into research phase expenditures and development phase expenditures.

Research phase expenditures of internal research and development projects shall be included in current profit or loss when incurred. Development phase expenditures of internal research and development projects can be recognized as intangible assets only when meeting all of the following conditions: 1) It is technically feasible to complete this intangible assets so that it can be used or sold; 2) The Company has the intention to complete the intangible assets and use or sell them; 3) The way in which intangible assets generate economic benefits, including the ability to prove that the products produced using the intangible assets exist in the market or the intangible assets themselves exist in the market, and the intangible assets will be used internally, can prove their usefulness; 4) sufficient technical, financial resources and other resources support to complete the development of the intangible asset and the ability to use or sell the intangible asset; and 5) the expenditure attributable to the development phase of the intangible asset can be reliably measured.

19. Long-term asset impairment

For the long-term equity investments, investment properties, fixed assets, construction in progress, intangible assets, and other long-term assets measured at cost model, if there are signs of impairment, an impairment test shall be conducted on the balance sheet date. If the recoverable amount of the asset is less than its carrying value according to the test, provision for impairment will be made at the difference and included in impairment loss. Recoverable amount is the higher of the net amount of fair value of an asset deducting the disposal expenses and the present value of estimated future cash flow of the asset. The provision for impairment of assets is calculated and made on an individual basis. If it is difficult for the Company to estimate the recoverable amount of the individual asset, the recoverable amount of an asset group, to which the said asset belongs, shall be determined. Asset group is the smallest asset group that can independently generate cash inflows.

For goodwill, impairment test shall be conducted at least at the end of each year. Impairment test shall be carried out in combination with the relevant asset group or combination of asset group.

The carrying value of goodwill caused by business combination is amortized to relevant asset groups with a reasonable method from the date of acquisition when the Company carries out impairment test on goodwill; or amortized to relevant combination of asset groups if it is difficult to be amortized to relevant asset groups. When the carrying value of goodwill is amortized to the relevant assets group or combination of assets groups, it shall be evenly amortized according to the proportion of the fair value of each assets group or combination of assets groups in the total fair value of the relevant assets groups or combinations of assets groups. Where the fair value cannot be reliably measured, it should be amortized according to the proportion of the carrying value of each asset group or combination of assets groups in the total carrying value of assets groups or combinations of assets groups.

When making an impairment test on the relevant assets groups or combination of assets groups containing goodwill, if any indication shows that the assets groups or combinations of assets groups may be impaired, the Company shall first conduct an impairment test on the assets groups or combinations of assets groups not containing goodwill, calculate the recoverable amount and compare it with relevant carrying value to recognize the corresponding impairment loss. Then the Company shall conduct an impairment test on the assets groups or combinations of assets groups containing goodwill, and compare the carrying value of these assets groups or combinations of assets groups (including the carrying value of the goodwill apportioned thereto) with the recoverable amount. Where the recoverable amount of the relevant assets groups or combinations of assets groups is lower than the carrying value thereof, the Company shall recognize the impairment loss of goodwill.

The above asset impairment losses shall not be reversed in subsequent accounting periods once recognized.

20. Long-term prepaid expense

Long-term prepaid expense is recorded according to the actual amount incurred and amortized over the benefit period or the stipulated amortization period by the straight-line method. If a long-term deferred expense item cannot benefit a later accounting period, the amortized value of the item that has not been amortized shall be transferred to the current profit or loss; long-term prepaid expense such as expenditure for improvement of fixed assets under operating lease shall be amortized averagely within the benefit period.

21. Contract liabilities

The Company presents contract assets or contract liabilities in the balance sheet based on the relationship between its performance obligations and customers' payments. The Company presents the obligation of transferring goods to or providing services for customers for consideration received or receivable as a contract liability. Revenue is recognized from contract liabilities when the Company performs its obligation to transfer goods or provide services to the customer.

22. Employee benefits

(1) Accounting treatment of short-term remuneration

Short-term remuneration refers to the payroll which is expected to be paid in full by the enterprise within 12 months after the end of the year in which the employee provided relevant services.

During the accounting period when employees serve the Company, the actual short-term remuneration is recognized as liabilities and included in current profit or loss or costs of relevant assets.

(2) Accounting treatment of post-employment benefits

Post-employment benefits refer to various compensations and benefits to be provided by the enterprise after retirement from or termination of the labour relation with the enterprise in exchange for the service provided by the employee. Post-employment benefits are divided into two types: Defined contribution plans and defined benefit plans.

1) Defined contribution plan: Contribution which shall be made by the Company separately on the balance sheet date in exchange for the service provided by the employee during the accounting period shall be recognized as payroll liabilities and included in current profit or loss or relevant asset cost.

2) Defined benefit plan: Based on the formula determined by expected cumulative welfare unit method, the benefit obligations arising from the defined benefit plan shall be attributable to the period in which the employee provides service and included in current profit or loss or cost of relevant asset; changes due to remeasurement of the net liabilities or net assets of the defined benefit plan shall be included in other comprehensive income and shall not be reversed to profit or loss in subsequent accounting periods.

(3) Accounting treatment of dismissal benefits

Dismissal benefits refer to the compensation paid to the employee by the enterprise for termination of the labour contract with the employee prior to expiration, or encouraging the employee to accept downsizing voluntarily.

If the enterprise provides dismissal benefits, payroll liabilities arising from dismissal benefits shall be recognized and included in current profit or loss on the earlier date of:

1) The date when the enterprise could not unilaterally withdraw the dismissal benefits which offered by the plan or layoff proposal due to termination of the labour relation.

2) The date when the enterprise recognizes the cost or expense related to the reorganization related to payment of the dismissal benefits.

(4) Accounting treatment of the other long-term employee welfare

Other long-term employee benefits refer to all payrolls except for short-term remuneration, post-employment benefits, and dismissal benefits, including long-term paid absences, long-term disability benefits, long-term profit sharing plan, etc.

The other long-term employee benefits provided by the enterprise shall be recognized and measured as net liability or net asset of other long-term employee benefits according to relevant provisions of the defined benefit plan, except for those meetings the conditions of defined contribution plan.

23. Provisions

(1) Recognition criteria for provisions

When obligations related to contingencies meet the following conditions, the Company shall recognize them as provisions:

- 1) The obligation is the current obligation assumed by the Company.
- 2) The performance of this obligation may result in the outflow of economic benefits.
- 3) The amount of this obligation can be reliably measured.

(2) Measurement method of provisions

Considering the risks, uncertainties, and time value of money related to contingencies, the provisions shall be initially measured at the best estimate of the required expenditure for the performance of current obligation. If the time value of money is significant, the best estimate shall be determined after discounting relevant future cash outflow. The Company shall check the carrying value of the provisions on the balance sheet date, and adjust the carrying value to reflect current best estimate.

24. Revenue

Disclose the accounting policies adopted for the recognition and measurement of revenue by business type:

(1) Recognition of revenues

Revenue is the total inflow of economic benefits arising from the Company's ordinary activities that would result in an increase in shareholders' equity and are unrelated to capital contributions by shareholders.

The Company recognizes revenue when it has fulfilled its performance obligations under the contract, that is, when the customer obtains control of the relevant goods. Obtaining control over related goods means being able to dominate the use of the goods and obtain almost all economic benefits from them.

If the contract contains two or more performance obligations, the Company will allocate the transaction price to each individual performance obligation according to the relative proportion of the individual selling price of the goods or services promised under each individual performance obligation on the contract commencement date, and measure the revenue according to the transaction price allocated to each individual performance obligation.

Transaction price is the amount of consideration that the Company is expected to be received due to the transfer of goods or services to customers, excluding the amount collected on behalf of third parties. In determining the transaction price of a contract, if variable consideration exists, the Company will determine the best estimate of the variable consideration based on the expected or most likely amount and include in the transaction price in an amount not exceeding the amount that the accumulated recognized revenue will most likely not be significantly reversed when the relevant uncertainty is eliminated. If there is a significant financing component in the contract, the Company will determine the transaction price according to the amount payable by the customer in cash when obtaining the control right of the goods. The difference between the transaction price and the contract consideration will be amortized by the effective interest rate method during the contract period. If the interval between the transfer of control right and the payment price by the customer does not exceed one year, the Company will not consider the financing component.

Performance obligations are fulfilled within a certain period if any of the following conditions is met:

- 1) The customer acquires and consumes the economic benefits of the Company's performance at the same time as the Company's performance;
- 2) The customer controls the goods under construction during the performance of the Company; or
- 3) The goods produced by the Company during the performance of the contract have irreplaceable uses, and the Company has the right to collect money for the accumulated performance that has been completed so far during the whole contract period.

For performance obligations performed within a certain period, the Company recognizes revenue according to the performance progress within that period, except that the performance progress cannot be reasonably determined. The Company considers the nature of the goods and uses either the output approach or the input approach to determine the appropriate performance progress.

For performance obligations performed at a certain point in time instead of within a certain period, the Company recognizes revenue at the point when the customer obtains control of the relevant goods.

When judging whether the customer has acquired control of goods or services, the Company will consider the following indications:

- 1) The Company has a present right to receive payment for the goods, i.e. the customer has a present obligation to pay for the goods.

2) The Company has transferred legal ownership of the goods to the customer, i.e. the customer has legal ownership of the goods.

3) The Company has physically transferred the goods to the customer, i.e. the customer has taken physical possession of the goods.

4) The Company has transferred to the customer the principal risks and rewards of ownership of the goods, i.e., the customer has acquired the principal risks and rewards of ownership of the good.

5) The customer has accepted the goods.

6) There are other signs that the customer has gained control of the goods.

(2) Recognition policies of revenues of the Company

1) Recognition methods of revenues for distribution model

The Company arranges logistics delivery to the customer's designated location, delivers the goods to the buyer according to the contract, and recognizes revenue after the buyer signs for it.

2) Recognition methods of revenues for direct sales model

Group purchase sales: Revenue is recognized when the Company delivers the goods to the buyer and receives payment or acquires the right to receive payment.

Online sales: Revenue is recognized when the Company receives the payment transferred from the e-commerce platform from the consumer.

25. Government subsidy

(1) Government subsidies include asset-related government subsidies and income-related government subsidies.

(2) If the government subsidy is a monetary asset, it shall be measured at the amount received or receivable; if the government subsidy is a non-monetary asset, it shall be measured at fair value. If the fair value cannot be obtained reliably, it shall be measured at the nominal amount.

(3) Government subsidies shall be measured using the gross amount method:

1) Asset-related government subsidies

The asset-related government subsidies refer to the government subsidies obtained by the Company and used for acquisition or construction or for formation of long-term assets in other ways, including the financial allocation for purchasing fixed assets or intangible assets, the financial discount for special loan of fixed assets and others.

The specific standard of the Company for classifying the government subsidies as asset-related subsidies: government subsidies obtained by the Company and used for acquisition or construction or for formation of long-term assets in other ways.

If the government documents do not specify the target of the subsidies, the basis that the Company classifies the government subsidies as asset-related subsidies or income-related subsidies were as follows: Whether the subsidies are used for acquisition or construction or for formation of long-term assets in other ways.

Timing of recognition of asset-related government subsidies of the Company: Government subsidies, when actually received, shall be recognized as deferred income and transferred equally to current profit or loss based on the expected service life of the long-term assets when the long-term assets are available for use.

The asset-related government subsidies are recognized as deferred income, and included in current profit or loss by stages based on the service life of the assets acquired and constructed. If the related asset is sold, transferred, scrapped or damaged before the end of the service life, the deferred income balance not yet distributed shall be transferred to the profits and losses of the period in which the assets are disposed.

2) Income-related government subsidies

Income-related government subsidies refer to all the government subsidies other than asset-related government subsidies.

The specific standard of the Company for classifying the government subsidies as income-related subsidies: All the government subsidies other than asset-related government subsidies.

Timing of recognition of income-related government subsidies of the Company: Government subsidies, when actually received, shall be included in current profit or loss if used to compensate the relevant expenses or losses of the Company in the subsequent period; included in current profit or loss directly when acquired if used to compensate relevant expenses or losses incurred by the Company.

Income-related government subsidies used to compensate the relevant expenses or losses of the Company in the subsequent period shall be recognized as deferred income when acquired; included in current profit or loss in the period in which relevant expenses are recognized; those used to compensate relevant expenses or losses incurred by the Company, shall be directly included in profit or loss directly when they are received.

If it is used to compensate for related expenses or losses in future periods, it shall be recognized as deferred income and included in profit or loss during the period in which the related expenses are recognized; if it is used to compensate for related expenses or losses that have already occurred, it shall be directly included in profit or loss.

For a government subsidy that includes both asset-related and income-related portions, different portions shall be distinguished and accounted for separately; if it is difficult to distinguish, it shall be classified as an income-related government subsidy as a whole.

The government subsidies related to daily activities of the Company shall be included in other income according to the substance of the economic business. The government subsidies irrelevant to the daily activities of the Company shall be included in non-operating income/expenses.

26. Deferred income tax assets/deferred income tax liabilities

(1) The Company recognizes the deferred income tax assets or deferred income tax liabilities in accordance with the applicable tax rate during the estimated period of recapturing the assets or paying the liabilities for the different amount between the carrying amount of assets or liabilities and its tax base (for items not recognized as assets and liabilities, if its tax basis can be determined according to the tax law, the tax basis is recognized as the different amount).

(2) The recognition of deferred income tax assets is subject to the amount of taxable income obtained to offset the deductible temporary differences. On the balance sheet date, deferred income tax assets without recognition during the former accounting period shall be recognized if there are definite indications representing that it is probable to have sufficient taxable income to offset the deductible temporary differences during the future period.

(3) The Company reviews carrying amount of deferred income tax assets on the balance sheet date. If it is determined that the Company is not likely to obtain adequate taxable income to offset benefits from deferred income tax assets, the book values of deferred income tax assets are written down. Such write-downs are reversed when it becomes probable that sufficient taxable income should be available.

(4) The current income tax and deferred income tax of the Company shall be included in the current profit or loss as income tax expenses or incomes, excluding the income taxes incurred in the following circumstances: 1) Business combinations; 2) transactions or events directly recognized in the owner's equity.

27. Leases

(1) Accounting treatment with the Company as the lessee

On the commencement date of the lease term, except for short-term leases and leases of low-value assets being adopted simplified treatment, the Company recognises right-of-use assets or lease liabilities for the lease.

Right-of-use assets shall be initially measured at costs, including: 1) The initial measurement amount of the lease liabilities; 2) the lease payment paid on or before the commencement date of the lease term. If there is a lease incentive, the amount related to the lease incentive taken should be deducted; 3) the initial direct cost incurred by the lessee; 4) the estimated cost that the Company will use to pull down and remove the leasehold property, and restore the site of the leasehold property or restore the leasehold property to the state agreed in the lease clauses (excluding the costs incurred by inventories for production).

The lease liabilities shall be initially measured at the present value of the unpaid lease payment from the commencement date of the lease term. When calculating the present value of lease payments, the Company uses the interest rate implicit in lease as the rate of discount. If the interest rate implicit in lease cannot be determined, the Company's incremental lending rate is used as the rate of discount.

After the commencement date of the lease term, the Company subsequently measures the right-of-use assets at cost model, and the right-of-use assets are subject to depreciation by using the straight-line method. Meanwhile, the interest expenses of the lease liabilities in each period of the lease term are calculated, and shall be included in the profit or loss for the current period, unless otherwise stipulated to be included in underlying asset costs. Variable lease payments that are not covered in the measurement of the lease liabilities are included in current profit or loss when actually incurred, unless otherwise stipulated to be included in underlying asset costs.

For short-term leases within 12 months and leases of low-value assets, the Company chooses not to recognise right-of-use assets and lease liabilities. The relevant lease expenditures are included in relevant asset cost or the profit or loss for the current period in the straight-line method in each period of the lease term.

(2) Accounting treatment of leases with the Company as the lessor

1) Classification of lease

The Company classifies leases into finance leases and operating leases at the inception of leases. A finance lease refers to a lease where almost all the risks and rewards, related to the ownership of the leased asset, are substantially transferred, regardless of whether the ownership is eventually transferred or not. An operating lease refers to all leases other than finance leases.

2) Accounting treatment of financial lease

On the commencement date of the lease term, the Company recognises the finance lease receivables for the finance lease and derecognises the leased asset of the finance lease. In the initial measurement of finance lease receivables, the sum of the unsecured residual value and the present value of the lease payments receivable not yet received on the commencement date of the lease term discounted at the interest rate implicit in lease is the book value of the finance lease receivables. The Company calculates and recognises the interest income in each period within the lease term at a fixed interest rate implicit in the lease. The received variable lease payments that are not included in the measurement of the net investment in the lease are included in profit or loss for the current period when they are actually incurred.

3) Accounting treatment of operating lease

The Company recognises the lease payments receivable of the operating lease as rental earning in each period within the lease term on a straight-line basis or according to other systematic and reasonable methods. The initial direct costs related to the operating lease are capitalised, amortised within the lease term on the same basis as the recognition of rental earning, and included in profit or loss for the current period. The received variable lease payments related to the operating lease that are not included in the lease payments receivable are included in profit or loss for the current period when they are actually incurred.

(2) Credit Risk

The Company merely trades with the authorized third party with good credit. In accordance with the Company's policy, credit checks are required for all customers who request to transact on credit. In addition, the Company monitors its accounts receivable balances on an ongoing basis to ensure that the Company is not exposed to significant bad debt risk.

The Company's other financial assets include monetary assets, accounts receivable, and other receivables, the credit risk of which arises from default of the counter-parties, with the maximum exposure equal to the carrying amount of these instruments.

Due to the Company merely trades with the authorized third party with good credit, the guarantee is not required. Credit risk concentration is managed in accordance with the customers. The Company's sales are primarily made on a receipts-in-advance basis and the credit risk of the transactions is low.

(3) Liquidity Risk

Liquidity risk refers to the risk of fund shortage occurring when the Company fulfills the settlement obligation in the mode of cash delivery or other financial assets. The goal of the Company is to maintain sufficient funds and credit limits to meet the liquidity requirements.

4. For fair value measurement at level III on an ongoing and non-ongoing bases, qualitative and quantitative information on the valuation techniques used and significant parameters

Receivables financing: Due to the short term of notes receivable held by the Company, and the selling time, selling price and selling proportion cannot be estimated reliably, the Company measures the notes receivable according to the par value as a reasonable estimate of fair value.

Other non-current financial assets: Since the Company holds other non-current financial assets that are not traded in an active market, and its equity interest in the invested company is low and has no significant influence, it is not realistic and feasible to value the equity in the invested company using the income approach or market approach, and there is no recent introduction of external investors to the invested company or transfer of equity among shareholders that can be used as a reference basis for determining fair value. In addition, the Company has not found any significant changes in the internal and external environment of the invested company since the beginning of the year from the analysis of the relevant information available, therefore, it is a "limited circumstances" in which the carrying cost can be used as the best estimate of the fair value, and therefore the fair value is based on the cost at the end of the period.
